LOCAL WHOLESALE TRADE

UNUSUALLY GOOD WEEK FOR SUMMER MARKET.

Prices of Poultry Higher Than They Should Be-Receipts of Cereals Fall Below Expectations.

In the week ended Aug. 1 trade conditions were very satisfactory for a summer market. Quotations as a rule were firmly held. Especially is this true of staple groceries, which are moving freely. Flour is another article which continues and produce were in good supply and went through the week with but slight changes. Can- 6; No. 3 tubs, 3405; 3-hoop pails, $1.69; 2-hoop taloupes and matermelons are abundant and pails, $1.4001.50; double was boards, $2.5002.70; through the week with but slight changes. Canprices carry an easy tone. Choice apples are good sellers, as are peaches. Georgia peaches and pears of good quality have been on the market and met with ready sale. California fruit is bundant and sells cheaper than usual at this season. Poultry continues firm at prices quoted. Chickens are in good demand with supply limsted, but the dealers are looking for increased receipts during the coming week, as present high his probably will result in lower quotations. atter is quiet and choice stock is firm at top ures. Cheese is steady and moves fairly well. ggs remain at the former range, but the maris a little slow, demand having been curtailed, and lower prices the coming week need not be a surprise. The dry goods houses had a very quiet week, but it is expected that during the present month retail merchants will begin stocking up with fall and winter goods, as indir the fall trade. Druggists are enjoying an exent trade, their business during the past season having been unusually good and prices have n well maintained. Iron and steel merchants ort trade excellent, though not as large as ring the spring, but in excess of the corre-ending period of last year. The outlook for a fall trade is promising. Traveling salesmen

Offerings of cereals during the past week fel below expectations. Considerable wheat arrived, d, which for corn are high for this season of the year. Prospects for dollar wheat are not very flattering. Oats begin to arrive freeely, but a large percentage cannot be classed as high grade. Track bids, as reported by the secretary

THE "NEWSPAPER FEVER."

Once a Man Acquires It, It Never Quite Leaves Him.

New Orleans Times-Democrat. "Do you know there is such a thing as 'newspaper fever,' and that it just worms and burns its way into a fellow's system, and remains there as long as life lasts?" said an old-time newspaper man to a group of younger workers. "It is a fact. Men who work around newspaper offices know it to be true. They know it is true not only of the men who work in the business, but of many others who never happen to get into the business at all. You will find a great many men who have the news instinct so strongly developed in their make-up that they canno resist the tendency to drift to the centers of interest, though they have other things to do, and are in no way interested in the event; or happening, which attracts them. anything of a violent kind, will attract these fellows always. They have what may be properly called the 'newspaper fever.' It they are always on the lookout for something. With the fellows who have been in the harness 'newspaper fever,' of course, is common enough. 'Once a newspaper man, always a newspaper man' is a common expression around newspaper offices, and it is even so. There is an old legend to the effect that if a man once tastes Mississippi-river (The quotations given below are the selling prices | old river, no matter where he goes. It is the same way in the newspaper business. Taste it once, and you have got it in your system for good. I was reminded of the fact again the other day when something out of the ordinary happened here in New Orleans. I found myself rushing wildly to the scene of the trouble. And mind you, I haven't been in the newspaper business for years. Yet, if I had been detailed by the city editor of one of the leading papers here to handle the story, I would not have displayed more precipitancy and enthusiasm in getting to the scene of the trouble. Now, mark what happened. I crowded right in to the center of the situation, and had been there but a few moments when I glanced up into the face of an old friend. We looked at each other, saluted and smiled, and then the fact dawned on us that we had absolutely nothing to do with the particular event. Somewhat embarrassed we walked out together. 'We can't help it, can we, old fellow?' my friend remarked as we passed out, and, of course, understood, for many years ago we worked together in the newspaper business. It was simply a case of 'newspaper fever,' and nothing more." Ways of the "Charitable Rich."

Woman Doctor, in Everybody's Magazine. In my six months of small-town practice I learned many other things, and none more puzzling than a certain aspect of the charity of the rich. A number of the women there devoted much time to the poor, and one of their good offices was to bring these to me (often in their carriages) and get me to treat them for nothing. I was desperately poor myself, having others to help as well as my own living to make, and I confess my spirit rebelled sometimes when these prosperous and well-fed philanthropists patted themselves for presenting my time, strength and knowledge to their proteges. I remember one case in particular, when I was called up on a bitter winter night by an Italian who could not speak a word of 14, 4.25c; confectioners' A, 4.85c; mold A, 5.25c; English and followed him two miles through the snow, where I worked without help or convenience of any kind till 10 the next morning, to go home utterly spent; and the consciousness of having saved a life was made a trifle bitter by the picture of the lady patroness who had donated my services waking from placid sleep to congratulate herself on her, good deed. I was humane but I was also human. She might at least have paid me.

New York Evening Sun. Alicia planned that dinner. She picked topliners every time, and the waiter, we noticed, carefully avoided our eye as he filled up his little order blank "And that will be all for the present, concluded Alicia, as she smiled over at us. "One moment!" we observed. Our voice

We tore up Alicia's ambitious effort and cleared our throat musically. "Walter." we continued, "two plates of beans and a beer. Prices took a final spurt upward within the last few minutes of trading, and the close was at the top, September being 1%@1%c higher, at 80%c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 327,500 bu. Primary receipts were 622,500 bu, against 1,051,402 bu a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 159 cars, which, with local receipts of 90 cars-20 of contract grade-made a total of 249 cars, against 246 cars last week and 459 cars a year ago.

> Corn was helped largely by the strength in wheat, although the weather was a little cool for the quick development of the crop. There was a fair trade, but the market was not as active as it had been of late. Receipts continued light, with little prospect of much increase in the movement. The close was strong, with September up 1/4c, at 52½c, after seiling between 52c and 52½c. BOSTON. Aug 1.—[Special.]—Eggs—Strictly fresh steady at 15@16c.

There was a fair trade in oats and prices were strong in sympathy with the better tone in other grains. Some of the big houses had considerable stuff for sale, but commission houses had plenty of buying orders, which sustained prices. After selling between 331/sc and 341/4c September closed %@%c higher at 34@34%c. Receipts were 258 cars.

The chief feature in provisions was the light offerings. With a good demand for ribs, and helped by the strength in grains, the price of hog products ruled higher from the start. Shorts were active buyers late in the day. The close was strong, with September pork 10c higher at $13.75, lard up 121/2c at $7.95 and ribs 10c higher at $8.071/2. Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 105 cars; corn, 200 cars; oats, 121 cars; hogs, 31.000 head. Leading futures ranged as follows:

If salesmen could have obtained uniform prices for their cattle this week the task would have cised their discriminating powers to an unusual extent, and it frequently happened that equal kinds of cattle had to sell at a difference of 10@ 15c in prices. On account of the flurry in prices at the close of last week it was expected that the receipts this week would be larger, but they in fair demand; extra Western creamery, 19½c; extra near-by prints, 20c. Eggs firm and in good demand; fresh near-by, 18½c, loss off; fresh Western, 18½c, loss off; fresh Southern, 16½@ 17c; fresh Southwestern, 15½@16c. Cheese steady; were larger than expected. From the beginning of the week buyers began taking off in prices what they had put on last week, and before the close of the week they had succeeded in wiping out all of the gain made in certain lines last week, and there was probably no kind that did not suffer as much as 25c decline this week. The recent dry weather made feeders more anxious to sell, and, prices at the close of last week being attractive, a large number of unfinished cattle were put upon the market. This, of course, made the average quality less, but it would not have been as good as last week, because there was a smaller number of choice kinds here this week. After a decline of about 25c in prices of the best steers, heifers and cows the first half of the week, the market, on account of the scarcity of those kinds, held about steady to the close. The supply of common and unfinished cattle continued to accumulate, and there was an irregular but gradual decline in enced this week was with thin grassy heifers and fat cattle of common quality. Certain steers around $4.25@4.56 "looked" 50@75c lower than last week, and certain kinds that had to sell would not fetch $3. At the close of the week a decent kind of cows were selling around $3.50 and fair kinds around $3.25. In sympathy with other cattle, bulls were lower, and at one time in the week calves made a bad break, but at the high as $6. The extreme prices paid this week were $5.30 for steers, $4.50 for heifers, $4.10 for cows, $4 for bulls and $6.25 for calves, but a very large proportion of the steers sold below > reported easier. All things considered, a fair clearance for the week was finally made, but a few loads were carried over and a few were for-

In point of prices the hog market here this week has been a remarkable one. At all times "I was-afraid of the zeal," owned Theobuyers have paid a good premium over prices prevailing elsewhere. At first they did so with-out much protest because the supplies were hard-"It might jump out at me from under ly large enough to meet the requirements, and a pew or somewhere," explained the wary they hoped to increase the feceipts. Sheep-Receipts, 250; shipments, 200. The re-eipts of sheep and lambs this week have also een comparatively liberal, showing an increase of 800 over last week, and over 200 compared with the same week a year ago and the coresponding week two years ago. Thus far this the receipts are a little over 2,000 smaller than the same period last year, and the official receipts last month were 106 larger than the same month a year ago. There were more frequent changes in prices of sheep and lambs this week than there has been for some time past, but in the end the change n either direction is not material. At different times changes of as much as 25c in prices oc curred, but nearly all declines were followed by a rally in prices and vice versa. The supplies were not excessive at any time, but about threefourths of the week's supply came in the latter half of the week. The quality this week has probably been a little more satisfactory than the average recently. The greater part of the week the best lambs were salable as high as $5.75 and sheep as high as $3.75, but at the extreme close of the week the top prices were practically $5.5 for lambs and $3.50 for sheep. Most of the good lambs have sold around $5@5.50, with common kinds as low as $3.50, and the bulk of the good sheep have sold at $363.25, with culls as low as $2. There were not many yearlings sold as such, and, therefore, it was difficult to make an esti-mate of the market based upon actual sales, but nearly every da the best selections were sala-ble as high as . The receipts to-day were a fair average for Saturday, and, although there was no active competition between buyers and it was more or less difficult to consummate sales, prices, in a general way, were not a great deal lower than yesterday. Slight Changes in the Original Wesleyan Form of Worship.

The Methodists took a long liturgical stride at Ocean Grove on Wednesday when the representatives of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South adopted, in conference, a new form of worship. There is nothing remarkable in the form itself, which embraces but Individual pastors in the Methodist denomination have, for years past, strayed, with their brethren of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches, toward a liturgy without a ritual. In every city of the country one may find a surpliced shepherd of the latter-day Puritan flock; may find a surprise in a form of worship which has never been rigidly uniform or prescribed. For the Methodists, at least, the official action of the Ocean Grove conference would seem to have introduced something like a fixed and formal

There will be marked objection from certain sources undoubtedly. Factional fights over predestination in the Presbyterian fold, over its name and ritual in the ranks of Protestant Episcopalians, are as child's at 125 p. m. The protracted and camp meetings, with their excited and insistent summons to the anxious bench, have been missed by saints and sinners alike. There is no hint of them in the Ocean Grove liturgy, beyond a note, preceding the doxology, which simply states that "an invitation to come to Christ, or to unite with the church, shall be given when this hymn is announced." The change may seem revolutionary to all those loyal and fervent Christians who found the essence of Methodism in chanting the Wesleyan call "to the fount to seek salvation;" but it is really an advance along the line of denominational worship. Strange Habits of the Cowbird. Country Life in America.

The cowbird is black and a little smaller than the redwinged blackbird. There are three species, two of which-the common and red-eyed-migrate to our Northern States and are found associated together. The male of the common cowbird has a "Haven't asked him no questions nor ex- | head and neck of deep wood-brown, while the red-eyed is wholly black and very lustrous.
